I. Program Overview

Kyoto University celebrated its 120th anniversary in 2017. Since its establishment in 1897, the university has endeavored to provide high-quality education and advance the frontiers of scientific research. Through its general and specialized education programs, the university seeks to cultivate global leaders for the 21st century.

Since its foundation, the university has maintained a tradition of respecting and encouraging academic freedom—a tradition which is at the heart of the Kyoto University International Undergraduate Program (Kyoto iUP), an innovative new undergraduate program for international students.

Kyoto iUP comprises a six-month preparatory course followed by a four-year undergraduate program. In the first two-and-a-half years, students develop an essential understanding of core subjects in both English and Japanese, and acquire sufficient Japanese language proficiency to attend specialized lectures and pursue advanced studies in Japanese in their final two years.

In addition to cultivating language proficiency and a multicultural mindset, the four-and-a-half-year program is also designed to encourage students to exercise initiative and develop flexible thinking. Upon completing the program, students will have in-depth expertise in their chosen field and an extensive understanding of the world. These qualities open the doors to leadership roles in various sectors of international society.

Kyoto iUP students receive comprehensive support during all phases of the program, benefiting from the experience accumulated by the university throughout its long history of fostering international students from around the globe and supporting them in their studies, research, daily life, and career development.

The key features and details of the program are as follows:

- Kyoto iUP comprises a six-month preparatory course and a four-year undergraduate program. Upon graduation, Kyoto iUP students will be awarded a bachelor’s degree in their selected major.

- Students on the program can enroll in the following faculties.*1 Applicants should select a faculty/department that is appropriate to their own academic interests. If they are interested in more than one faculty/department, they can provisionally select up to three faculties/departments at the time of application. Their preferences will be discussed during the interview, and they will be provisionally notified of the faculty in which they will enroll when they receive the notification that they have passed the interview stage of the selection procedures. The final notification of the faculty in which they will enroll will be given when they receive confirmation that they have passed the qualifying test after the Preparatory Course.

*1 Enrollment in the Faculties of Letters, Medicine and Pharmaceutical Sciences is currently not possible through the program.

*2 Applicants seeking to enroll in the Faculties of Integrated Human Studies, Science, Engineering, and Agriculture must specify the divisions/departments in which they wish to enroll at the time of application.

- No Japanese language proficiency is required at the time of application. Students will be provided with intensive Japanese courses in the first six months of the program, followed by two years of advanced courses. Students will then have sufficient proficiency to attend regular undergraduate program lectures and seminars in Japanese from their third year.

- Applicants must have a strong motivation to learn the Japanese language in order to gain the proficiency required to understand classes in their chosen subjects taught in Japanese.

- The selection process will be conducted by the university’s Admissions Office, which is composed of admission specialists and experienced international faculty members. The admission process comprises a screening of the application documents and interviews. Applicants are expected to have a high degree of academic achievement, English language competence, a high level of motivation, and a worldview aligned with their future goals.

- At the end of the Preparatory Course, there will be qualifying tests in relevant subjects prepared by the faculty. There will also be Japanese language requirements. Those who satisfy all of the requirements, performing well in the Preparatory Course and passing the qualifying tests, are guaranteed enrollment in the faculty.

- Kyoto iUP students will be enrolled in the faculty as regular undergraduate degree-seeking students. In the first two years of the program, they will study liberal arts courses and major subjects of their choice with other degree-seeking students in English and/or Japanese. This will be followed by two years of specialized education in their chosen major subjects, which will be taught mainly, or exclusively, in Japanese.

- Scholarships that provide full or partial admission/tuition fee waivers and monthly allowances are available.

- Kyoto University International House (dormitory) is available for the first year.

- Extensive career support is provided for students seeking to move on to graduate studies or employment within or outside of Japan.
We look forward to welcoming motivated and ambitious students from around the world to Kyoto University.
